1. Introduction

- 1.1 The giving or withholding of medication should not be the primary method of influencing or controlling a resident's behaviour and other recognised skills, such as de-escalation or distraction techniques should always be the first choice in attempting to manage behaviour that challenges.
- 1.2 The covert administration of medicines should only be used in exceptional circumstances when such a means of administration is judged necessary, in accordance with the Mental Capacity Act 2005. (NICE QS85).

2. The Legal Framework

2.1 Covert administration of medication is a serious interference with a person's autonomy and right to self- determination under Article 8 of the European Convention of Human Rights and as such would require a Deprivation of Liberty Safeguards (DoLS) authorisation or a review of any existing authorisation in place.

3. The Process

- 3.1 If a resident is refusing medication, the care home worker must provide them with information about the medicine in a format that they find easy to understand, which may enable the resident to reconsider their decision. If they continue to refuse medication, then the care home worker must try to ascertain the reason for medication refusal and record this on the Medicine Administration Record (MAR) chart; daily records care records and inform the Registered Manager.
- 3.2 The Registered Manager will contact the prescriber for advice and where refusal falls within part of a defined course of treatment, the GP needs to be informed after the first refusal.
- 3.3 Following refusal of medication that is essential to health and well-being or for all other medications refusal for two consecutive days or more, a mental capacity assessment in relation to medicines should be completed. This can be done by a care worker within the care home and the outcome should be documented in the resident's care notes. The GP should be made aware of this assessment and its outcome and a full medication review undertaken to support appropriate clinical management and ensure that only those medications that are currently necessary are prescribed.
- 3.4 If it is assessed that the resident has capacity to make an independent decision, medicines must not be administered covertly.
- 3.5 If the resident is deemed to lack capacity a BEST INTEREST discussion MUST take place with the multi-disciplinary team involved in the resident's care and people close to the resident to decide if the medication is to be administered covertly. This must be thoroughly documented (via the best interest decision form) in the resident's care records, and an agreed medicine management plan written.

- 3.6 If the situation is urgent, a discussion between the care home and prescriber should take place to support decision making. However, a formal meeting should be arranged as soon as possible.
- 3.7 If the patient has cognitive impairment, then consider guidance from the Memory Team & Support Services about what might work best for the individual.
- 3.8 It is also important to consider and plan how the medicine can be covertly administered, whether it is safe to do so and to ensure that the need for continued covert administration is regularly reviewed.
- 3.9 Medications should not be altered to make them easier to swallow or to hide them without input from a pharmacist or prescriber. Inappropriate changes to the form of the medication may affect the way that the medicine works. Appropriate information regarding stability of medication when administered covertly should be obtained from the GP, practice pharmacist or the care home pharmacist at the Clinical Commissioning Group. This information should be documented on the care plan and the Administration of Covert Medication Form at Appendix 3. This should then be attached to the front of the Medicine Administration Record (MAR chart).
- 3.10 Regular review dates MUST be set to review the resident's mental capacity to make decisions regarding medication, Best Interest decisions made on their behalf and covert administration of medication management plans. Any change of medication or treatment regime should also trigger a review where such medication is covertly administered.
