

Talk to us about ket survey

Purpose of the survey

Ketamine, a dissociative anaesthetic traditionally used in medical settings, has gained recreational popularity due to its euphoric, hallucinogenic, and dissociative properties. The escalating prevalence of ketamine use has prompted concerns regarding the recognition of dependence, the availability of effective treatment options, and the comparably little understanding of ketamine addiction compared to other substances.

We aim to raise awareness about ketamine use while emphasising the urgent need for the development of evidence-based treatment guidelines, with the goal of improving treatment success rates among individuals seeking help for ketamine use.

What will happen to the results of this survey?

We intend to use the results of this study to provide information that will help the partnership improve service for people who use ketamine.

To access the survey you can scan the QR code:

Or use the link below:

<https://surveys.barnsley.gov.uk/s/Talktousaboutket/>